PRMA Consulting is on a digital journey towards providing software solutions integrated with its innovative consulting services to the world's largest pharmaceutical companies.

We are looking for an experienced and enthusiastic DevOps Engineer who is passionate about coding, automation and system hygiene, with strong communication skills.

As DevOps Engineer, you will have the opportunity to tackle complex problems using your expertise in coding, complexity analysis and software system design using C#, Powershell & JavaScript. You will support our Azure stack and work on the build, automation and deployment pipelines through the development, staging and production environments. You will consider metrics for QA, performance tuning, and system health, and ensure the best practice is adhered to by other members of the team, some of whom are offshore. Reporting to the Development Lead, this position will work alongside the, Product Manager and other Developers.

This is an ideal opportunity for someone looking to become a software architect, with a desire to practice good architecture and solid principles. You will also be responsible for documentation of the processes and specifications developed, and know that the best way to do this is in self documenting code.

This is a new position in a top consultancy providing market access solutions to the pharmaceutical industry, you can expect a rewarding career with fantastic opportunities for progression, recognition and a flexible working environment to give you the work life balance you need to perform at your best.

If you are a pragmatic and versatile DevOps Engineer looking for your next opportunity, we'd love to hear from you.
